

Aims and Scope of the Journal of Accounting and Management

Journal of Accounting and Management publishes articles in the field of accounting and management. The JAM gives authors the opportunity to develop profession and to comprise the latest cognitions in the fields of accounting and management. The Journal provides a wide variety of quality topics, which will be continued in the future in order to provide the necessary knowledge and information.

The aim of the JAournal is to enable the development of sensitive fields of accounting, taxes and management and provide constant monitoring of changes and new research works. The Journal aims to contribute to the accountancy profession and initiate further professional engagement.

The Journal is on a completely open-access basis and is available for use to scholars, professionals and students.